

Manually opening the MORryde Zero G Ramp Door

From the inside of the unit, there is a manual override for the latches. There is one to each side of the frame, on the underside of the top tube near the latches. There is a rubber plug that needs to be removed which can be seen in the picture below. Once the plug is removed, reach your finger up and toward the side of the coach. There is a metal flipper that you will need to pull down on. This will release the latch.
